And It's All Yours

Families in Society is much more than a print journal. It is online continuing education credits, Webinars and teleconferences, exclusive Web article archives, online previews of upcoming articles, extensive peer contact information, a free quarterly Practice & Policy Focus newsletter, and a starting point for professional staff development.

Online Subscriptions Discounted in 2010.

FAMILIES IN SOCIETY

The Art, Science, and Practice of Social Work

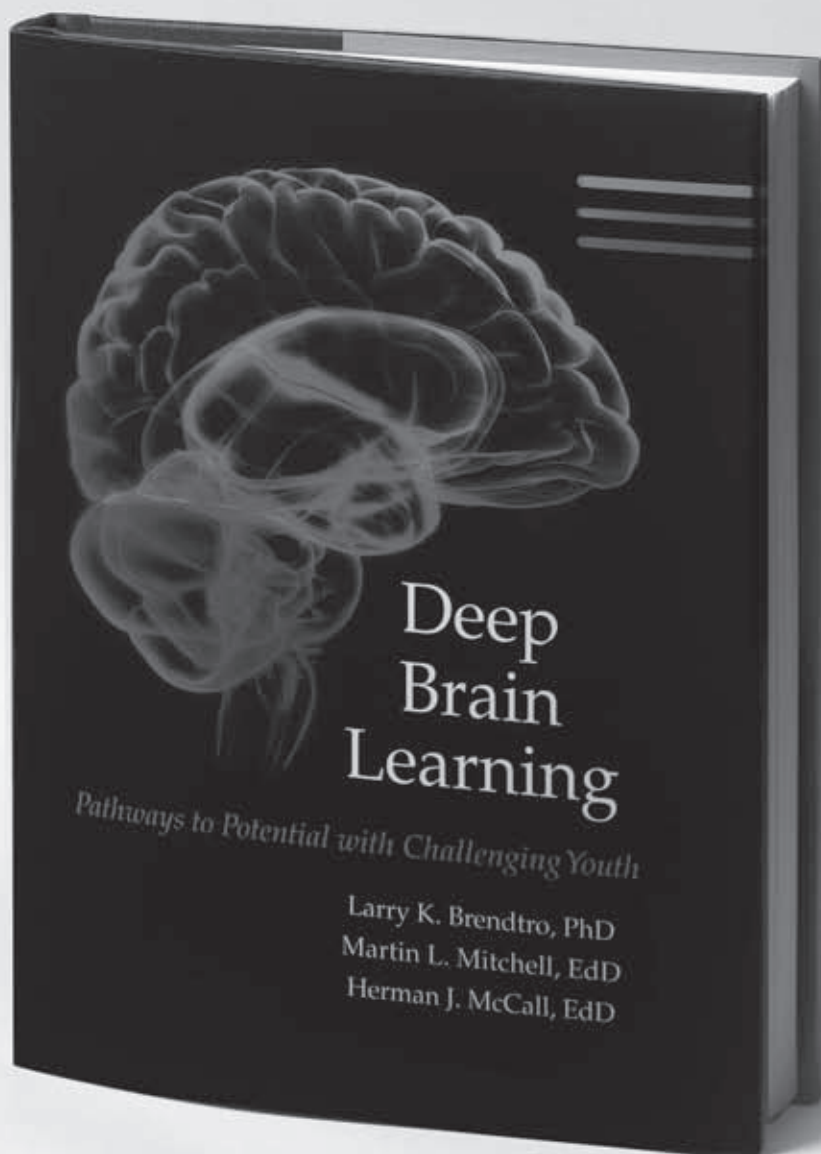

“Cutting edge...
astonishingly creative”

John C. Gibbs, Ph.D., Professor of Developmental Psychology, The Ohio State University

“A moral declaration of hope...”

*Sandra L. Bloom,
Founder of the Sanctuary Model*

Deep Brain Learning brings us closer than ever to knowing what works with troubled youth, what doesn't, and why. Using the voices of young people, case stories and insights gained over decades in the field, the authors offer powerful universal principles for success with children and youth. For educators, psychologists, judges and social workers, it's a must-read.
