

How do you use FAMILIES IN SOCIETY?

Continuing Education and Practical Learning

"The ethics courses provide superb training. I plan to use this in our local private practice group."

Dorothy Burd, LCSW, President Lighthouse Counseling

"The site is easy to use and the entire process is user-friendly. It is refreshing that the items were detailed and specific, though clear. [The tests] weren't a cakewalk, which is good."

*Daniel Williger, PhD, Licensed Psychologist
Provident Counseling*

"The CE4Alliance program is wonderful. Thank you for having insight and giving us professionals this opportunity."

*James Jones, ACSW, President & CEO
Family Service of Northwest Ohio*

"The [program] is very exciting; I expect our professional staff will be utilizing this program regularly."

*Nyla K. Woods, President & CEO
Family Services of Greater Houston*

Quality Improvement and Methods

"The article on using diagrammatic assessment for family relationships has been a very useful [training] resource for our social caseworkers, probation counselors and clinical social workers."

*Lori M. Herz, Technical Training Specialist
Rhode Island Child Welfare Institute*

"FIS helps keep our clinicians and management team in touch with current trends, programs, and research. It's great to have such a valuable resource readily available online to our entire staff!"

*Lynn D. Kyle, Executive Director
Lampion Center*

"Our project on building cultural competence in disability services' staff benefited from your specialized articles."

*Maureen Kingshott, Assistant Director
Multicultural Disability Advocacy Association*

"Families in Society is among the few professional journals that I turn to time and again to inform my practice and deepen my knowledge base. It has been consistently one of the more accessible, innovative, and reader-friendly journals available. Special themes on contemporary issues in the field keep the content fresh from issue to issue."

*Andrew Malekoff, ACSW, CASAC Associate Director
North Shore Child and Family Guidance Center*
